DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 21 and 22 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Claims 20 and 21 are drawn to a retainer member for releasably securing a tubular male member and a tubular female member, thus positively claiming the retainer member and only functionally claiming the male and female members. Yet the recitation “wherein a diameter of the female member outer annular wall decreases at a circumferential shoulder that is spaced apart from and faces a substantially opposite direction than the first end” in claim 21 makes it unclear as to whether the female member is being claimed in combination with the retainer member. For examination purposes, the female member has been considered not to be claimed in combination with the retainer member.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rea et al (US 5,542,717).

Rea discloses a retainer member comprising interior retainer means (18d); an outer retainer means (18a) spaced radially apart from the interior retainer means; and a joining member (18c) joining the interior retainer means and the outer retainer means, the joining member defining a central opening; the outer retainer means including a radially inward projection (18h) at an end thereof; wherein the interior retainer means includes a plurality of circumferentially spaced resilient internal retainer arms and the outer retainer means includes an annular external retainer flange radially spaced from the internal retainer arms and connected thereto by the joining member, the internal retainer arms each having a distal end.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-19 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see pages 8-12, filed 7/20/06, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-22 under 35 USC 103(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Rea et al.
